Established in 1865, the Iowa Law School is the oldest American law school in continuous service west of the Mississippi River. In 1868 Iowa became one of the first schools in the nation to utilize the "case method" approach to law study. Open to all persons from its inception, Iowa was the first public law school in the country to graduate a woman lawyer (in 1873) and the first to graduate a black lawyer (in 1879). The Iowa Law School was among the initial group of schools to be approved by the American Bar Association in 1923 and is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Today the Iowa Law School enrolls over 650 students in its J.D. program and 10 foreign students in its M.C.L. program. A full-time faculty of 42 teachers instructs students in an ambitious academic program emphasizing individualized supervision of students in the development of fundamental professional skills, particularly legal research and writing. This commitment to excellence in research and writing is reflected in the school's law library, whose approximately 500,000 volumes rank it among the nation's top ten in size and whose extensive carrel development makes it possible for all upper-class students to enjoy their own private work spaces.

The Boyd Law Building is named for former University of Iowa President Willard L. Boyd, who chaired the ABA Section on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar in 1980-81. The new building, which opened for classes in May 1986, is a five-floor, 200,000 square feet structure. The Boyd Building was designed by Gunnar Birkerts & Associates of Birmingham, Michigan. Its unique circular shape was selected by Birkerts on both metaphorical and practical grounds. The circle, nature's perfect form, was seen by Birkerts as a symbol for "law's tireless striving for perfection in the ordering of human affairs." The building's limestone, dark glass and polished aluminum surfaces enclose a wonderfully functional learning center. The classrooms, courtrooms, auditorium, administrative suites, faculty offices, student activity areas and lounges surround a fully automated law library that contains state-of-the-art technology for legal research and scholarly production.

INTRODUCTION

The Review of Legal Education contains information concerning all approved law schools. In addition, a summary is presented of the bar admission requirements of the several jurisdictions. This information has been collected through the cooperation of the law school deans, the National Conference of Bar Examiners, and the state boards of law (bar) examiners.

American Bar Association Approval. Since the adoption of the first law school accreditation standards by the American Bar Association in 1921, state supreme courts and other bar admitting authorities have encouraged the ABA's accreditation efforts, and the vast majority of states rely upon ABA accreditation to determine whether an applicant meets the educational requirements for admission to the bar. Graduation from an ABA-approved law school satisfies the legal education requirements for admission to the bar in all jurisdictions in the United States. Graduation from a state-approved law school may qualify a person to take the bar examination in the state in which the school is located but generally does not qualify the person for the examination in other states.

The United States Secretary of Education, Department of Education, has listed the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar officially as the "nationally recognized accrediting agency" for professional schools of law. The Council on Postsecondary Accreditation also has recognized the program of law school approval of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association. The Association of American Law Schools also has been recognized by COPA.

Law schools are approved by the American Bar Association upon application of a school and after a finding that the school offers a sound program of legal education which complies with the Standards for Approval of Law Schools of the American Bar Association. A law school is approved by action of the House of Delegates of the Association. Responsibility for administering the Association's program of accreditation has been placed with the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar.

Applications for provisional approval are not considered until a law school has completed the first academic year of its program. Therefore, the charter class of a new law school enrolls in an "ABA-unapproved" school.

A law school will be granted provisional approval when it establishes that it substantially complies with each of the Standards and gives assurances that it will be in full compliance with all of the Standards within three years after receiving provisional approval. Only when the applicant school establishes its substantial compliance, gives assurances that it will be in full compliance with the Standards within three years, and appears to have the necessary resources to accomplish these assurances, may it be granted provisional approval.

A law school which has been provisionally approved for two years will be considered for full approval by the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association upon a finding by the Council that the school fully meets the Standards for Approval of Law Schools of the American Bar Association, as interpreted by the Council, on a basis that assures continued compliance with the letter and the spirit of the Standards, with particular emphasis on a steady improvement in the quality of its educational program.

The students at provisionally approved law schools and persons who graduate while a school is provisionally approved are entitled to the same recognition accorded to students and graduates of fully approved law schools.

A total of 176 law schools are approved by the American Bar Association: 175 confer the first degree in law (the J.D. degree); the other ABA-approved school is the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General's School, which offers an officers' residence graduate course, a specialized program beyond the first degree in law.

Membership in the Association of American Law Schools is separate and apart from American Bar Association approval. A law school is not eligible for AALS membership until the school has been in operation five years and has graduated three classes. Of the 175 American Bar Association-approved law schools granting the J.D. degree, a total of 154 are members of the Association of American Law Schools. While the ABA and the AALS are separate organizations, both are interested in quality legal education and maintain a close working relationship toward that end.

No rating of law schools beyond the simple statement of their accreditation status is attempted or advocated by the official organizations in legal education. Qualities that make one kind of school good for one student may not be as important to another. The American Bar Association and its Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar have issued disclaimers of any law school rating system. Prospective law students should consider a variety of factors in making their choice among approved schools.

For many years the first degree in almost all law schools was the Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.). A few gave their Juris Doctor (J.D.) to all students, while others reserved the J.D. for students graduating with honors. In recent years, all schools have changed to granting the J.D. There is no difference in the nature of the course of study for the two degrees. The Master's degree (LL.M.) usually involves a one-year program combining course work and research beyond the J.D.; the Doctorate of Juridical Sciences (S.J.D.) is a graduate academic research degree that involves major academic advanced publishable work; and the Master's in Comparative Law (M.C.L.) involves advanced work for foreign-educated lawyers.

It is the position of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association that no graduate degree in law (LL.M., M.C.L., S.J.D.) is or should be a substitute for the first professional degree in law (J.D.) and that no graduate degree should qualify as meeting the legal education requirements for admission to the bar.

Guide to Reading the Law School Tables. The first table lists the 175 J.D. degree law schools approved by the American Bar Association, arranged alphabetically by state. At the end of the table are the data on the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General's School. Following that is a list of unapproved law schools that are known to the Association.

The enrollment figures are in terms of head count. The figures beneath the name of the school show the enrollment by each class or year and by division. Students are classified for purposes of the enrollment statistics on the basis of whether they are carrying a full load in the division in which they are enrolled. Minority group enrollment is the total enrollment of students who classify themselves as Black, not of Hispanic Origin; American Indian or Alaskan Native; Asian or Pacific Islander; Mexican American; Puerto Rican; and other Hispano-American. Puerto Rican law students enrolled in the three approved law schools in Puerto Rico are not classified as minority students.

The "Degrees Awarded" column gives the total number of each of the specified degrees awarded by each school since the start of the 1986-87 academic year, including the 1987 summer session. The number of degrees awarded to graduates of each division is stated separately.

The next column lists full-time and part-time teachers engaged in the school's teaching program regardless of tenure status. The dean and all associate and assistant deans including those who teach are shown separately in the next column along with all professional librarians. In previous issues this count included only teaching deans and librarians. However, with the 1984 issue, we began publishing a count of all administrators with the title of dean and all librarians with professional status.

Under the heading "Annual Tuition and Fees", "r" stands for resident and "nr" stands for nonresident. If the amount is not followed by a symbol, it is the same for both resident and nonresident. The figure given shows what each entering student was required to pay for the 1987-88 academic year, excluding summer session, and includes both tuition and fees.

The number of academic years of college study required for admission to each approved law school is indicated by a number where a degree is not required and by "D" where a baccalaureate degree is required for admission. The letter "s" after the number of weeks indicates the school is on a semester basis. The letter "q" indicates the school is on a quarterly basis. The next column states the minimum number of weeks required to complete the full-time program of law study. Weeks of class and examination are included, but weeks of vacation and registration are excluded in this statement.

In the next column, "Yes" is indicated where a school will accept transfer credit for courses successfully completed by students in summer sessions at other institutions and where a school permits students to accelerate their graduation by attending summer sessions at other institutions. "No" indicates the school does not do so.

"Joint Degrees" indicates whether the law school, in conjunction with some other college or school, offers a program leading to a joint degree. "MPA," for example, indicates that the law school offers with another college a joint Juris Doctor-Master of Public Administration degree. The figure following the letters indicates the number of each of these degrees awarded during the 1986-87 academic year. Where the school reported that it had no joint degree program, this is indicated by "NONE." Where there is a joint degree program but no degrees were awarded that year, this is indicated by a "0." Following is a list of abbreviations used in reporting the joint degrees:

"Total Hard Copy Volumes" refers to the total number of volumes of law and law-related books held by the law school at the end of the 1986-87 fiscal year. "Hard Copy Volume" means a physical unit of any printed, typewritten, handwritten, mimeographed, or processed work contained in one binding or portfolio, hardbound or paperbound, which has been catalogued, classified, or made ready for use.

"Microform Volume Equivalents" are also reported as the total number held at the end of the 1986-87 fiscal year. Beginning with the 1987-88 academic year, the American Bar Association Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, after consultation with the American Association of Law Libraries, changed its method of counting volume equivalencies of microforms. Now the volume equivalencies of microforms is computed as follows:

Microfiche: Six fiche are the equivalent of one volume

Microfilm: One roll of microfilm is equivalent to five volumes

1st Year Enrollment	Full-Time Part-Time	Oral Roberts University O.W. Coburn School of Law has reported to the ABA's Consultant on Legal Education that it has terminated its program effective June 1, 1987. It has further reported that former students at Oral Roberts University who satisfactorily have completed 60 hours at Oral Roberts University may "complete satisfactorily 30 additional hours in ABA-approved law schools by May 1, 1987" and receive an Oral Roberts University law degree. The Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar has reported its suggestion to Oral Roberts University that this date be changed to September 1, 1988.	1	0	114 80	43 28	10 14	145 62	59 24	7 2

NOTES: Enrollment is that in American Bar Association-approved schools as of October 1. The LSAT candidate volume is given for the test year ending in the first year stated. Thus, 100,751 administrations occurred in the test year June, 1986, through February, 1987. J.D. or LL.B. degrees are those awarded by approved schools for the academic year ending in the first year stated. Thus, 35,478 degrees were awarded in the year beginning with the fall, 1986, term and ending with the summer, 1987, term.

Total new admissions to the bar are for the 1987 calendar year and include those admitted by office study, diploma privilege, and examination and study at an unapproved law school. The great bulk of those admitted were graduated from approved schools.

*Total overall enrollment includes post-J.D. and other.

Stanford enrollment not included.

These are updated figures for 1982-83 and 1983-84.

†This number includes Oral Roberts University, Coburn School of Law, which terminated its program effective June 1, 1986. However, the Council has advised it to retain degree-granting authority for those former students who complete satisfactorily 30 additional hours in ABA-approved law schools by Sept. 1, 1988.

††Represents 39,365 admitted by examination, plus 553 admitted by diploma privilege. It does not include admissions on motion by a jurisdiction of attorneys from other jurisdictions, which totaled 4,776.

*In March, 1983, the Office of the Consultant issued revised minority J.D. statistics based on a review of every law school questionnaire received between 1974 and 1982. Discrepancies were the result of inconsistent reporting of Hispanic students by some law schools. Appropriate adjustments were made, and some minor errors in transcription corrected. The data collected between 1971 and 1973 were compiled for the Consultant's Office by the Educational Testing Service and were not refigured.

† 3 Puerto Rican schools not included; enrollment for ABA-approved law schools in Puerto Rico totaled 1,507 students; no data available from Oral Roberts University in 1986-87 or 1987-88.

‡ "Year Not Stated" category was not applicable this year.

†Puerto Rican students enrolled in the three ABA-approved law schools located in Puerto Rico are not included in these statistics. For the 1987-88 school year, enrollment in ABA-approved law schools in Puerto Rico totaled 1,507 students; no data available from Oral Roberts University.

This classification refers to students reported as being members of a minority group but not identified further.

1987 REVIEW OF LEGAL EDUCATION
CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS OF LAW
AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION
STATEMENT OF DISAPPROVAL

The American Bar Association expressly disapproves of correspondence law courses as a means of preparation for bar examinations and for practice. Before one pursues a correspondence law course, it is suggested that he first familiarize himself with the rules and regulations of the state in which he intends to practice and inquire whether correspondence law courses are acceptable under the applicable rules and regulations of the state and any governmental agency with which one expects to secure employment. Correspondence law school graduates may take the bar examinations only in California and even there only under special conditions.

PASS/FAIL GRADING BY UNDERGRADUATE COLLEGES

At its August 1970 meeting, the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar decided to endorse the following statement issued earlier by the Law School Admission Council on the impact of pass/fail grading by undergraduate colleges upon the law school admission process. This statement has also been endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law Schools.

The adoption by an increasing number of colleges and universities of pass/fail or similar grading systems for some or all of their students' work has implications for the law school admissions process. When a student with a transcript bearing such grades seeks to enter law school, law school admissions committees will be deprived of data that have served them well in the past in making the admissions decision. In the belief that college and university faculties and administrations who are considering conversion of a conventional grading system to a pass/fail or some variant system may be interested in the possible effect of such grading systems upon their graduates who seek admission to law school, the Law School Admission Council issues this statement.

The Law School Admission Test (LSAT) was developed more than twenty years ago in response to an expressed need of law schools for additional data upon which to base their admissions decisions. Validity studies conducted over the years demonstrate that the LSAT score contributes significantly to the prediction of an applicant's grades in law school and thus aids in the making of the admissions decision. These studies show that the LSAT score and the undergraduate grade-point average are the two best quantitative predictors, and that when they are used together they are better than either used separately. College grades represent both academic competence and achievement; the LSAT score largely indicates academic competence—the kind relevant to the study of law. The academic achievement of an applicant to law school indicates the extent of his preparation and motivation for the study of law. It is apparent, then, that college grades make a significant contribution to the prediction of law school grades that is not supplied by the LSAT score.

Where an applicant for admission to law school submits a transcript in which all or virtually all of his grades are on pass/fail basis, and submits no other indication of his level of achievement in college, the admissions committee can make little specific use of his college work in predicting his law school grades. This means that this prediction must be based on the LSAT score, even though the committee would much prefer not to place sole reliance on the test scores in making this prediction. Even when such a transcript is supplemented by a narrative evaluation of the applicant by several of his teachers and deans, the committee can make only limited use of the college work in predicting performance in law school. Like interviews, these evaluations give the committee some help in making the admissions judgment, but they are largely helpful in deciding which risks to take and which to reject.

Where the applicant for admission to law school submits a transcript containing some conventional grades and some pass/fail grades, the admissions committee can develop a grade-point average for that portion of the student's work bearing the conventional grades. However, many admissions officers will not feel justified in assigning to that average the conventional weight. They may well assume that the student chose to receive a conventional grade in those courses in which he gauged his probabilities for a premium grade to be good. This indicates that his grade-point average so developed will overstate his academic competence and achievement as compared with the average of a student whose grades are all conventional. Furthermore, the committee may reasonably assume that the applicant did not make the same effort in the courses graded on a pass/fail basis as he did in those graded on the conventional basis. In short, a grade-point average based only upon the limited part of a student's work in which conventional grades were assigned seems to overstate in a compound way the student's general academic ability and achievement. Therefore, it is understandable that many admissions officers are already discounting such a grade-point average, and discounting it more if there is a large proportion of pass/fail grades.

The Council recognizes that the increased use of the pass/fail grading system—or some variant thereof—will mean that law school admissions committees and officers will place an increased reliance upon the LSAT score, a greater reliance than either the Council or law school admissions committee would like. The Council recognizes that there are many educational considerations to be taken into account by the faculty and administration in determining the appropriate grading system for that college or university. The Council, of course, respects the authority and judgment of the college and university faculty and administration in making that decision. The Law School Admission Council offers this statement concerning the effect of pass/fail grades upon the proper evaluation of a college graduate's application for admission to law school only in the hope that it may be useful to college faculties and administrations in determining what grading system to use.

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION AND ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN LAW SCHOOLS STATEMENT OF GOOD PRACTICE ON IMPARTIALITY AND PROPRIETY IN THE PROCESS OF LAW SCHOOL ACCREDITATION

(A) Those who have significant responsibility in the process leading to accreditation of law schools serve a vital and quasi-judicial function in the legal system of the United States. It is important to the fair and effective functioning of the system of law school accreditation and to the maintenance of public and professional respect for that system that those who act in it act impartially and avoid even the appearance of impropriety.

(B) One who has significant responsibility in this system or who has had significant responsibility in this system within a period of two years past, as enumerated in paragraph "D" below, should not serve as a consultant to a law school in any matter relating to:

- (1) accreditation by the American Bar Association;
- (2) membership in the Association of American Law Schools;
- or
- (3) reinspection and continuation of American Bar Association accreditation or membership in the Association of American Law Schools.

(C) This restriction applies to service as consultant whether or not that service is for compensation. It does not apply to informal advice which an advisor renders (1) without fee, (2) informally, and (3) which he or she discloses fully to the other members of the accreditation or membership body on which he or she serves or has served; nor does it apply to the routine or official advice and assistance which is rendered by members of an inspection team or hearing commission, by the Consultant on Legal Education to the American Bar Association, by the Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools, or by persons acting on behalf of the Consultant or Executive Director, or (4) by a person acting in the normal course of his or her employment.

(D) This restriction applies to:

- (1) members of the Accreditation Committee of the Council on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association;
- (2) the President, other Officers, members of the Board of Governors, and members of the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association;
- (3) members of the Accreditation and Academic Freedom Committees of the Association of American Law Schools;

(4) the President and members of the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law Schools;

(5) members of the professional staff of the American Bar Association or the Association of American Law Schools, except as provided in paragraph "C" above;

(6) a member of an inspection team or hearing commission for either Association accepting appointment as a consultant to a law school that he or she has inspected or conducted hearings on, in behalf of either Association within two years after the inspection or while either Association still has under consideration matters developed by the inspection, whichever is the longer;

(7) the Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools or other person acting on behalf of the Association of American Law Schools may not acquiesce in the appointment as consultant on readiness of any person who by this Statement should not accept appointment as a school's consultant.

(E) Service as a consultant for a law school does not disqualify a person from any of the offices or committees in paragraph "D." However, the officer or committee member should excuse himself or herself from participation in discussion, formal or informal, of the affairs of a school for which he or she has served as consultant or employee and from taking part in any vote with respect to its status.

(F) A person who has served as a consultant or employee of a law school within two years prior to assuming a significant responsibility in the accreditation process should decline to participate in the determination of the accreditation status of the school with which he or she previously served.

(G) The Consultant on Legal Education to the American Bar Association, Executive Director of the Association of American Law Schools or either of them if they are acting cooperatively shall bring this regulation to the attention of persons who are nominated for or appointed to any of the positions enumerated in paragraph "D" above and to all persons who are holding these positions or who have held them within two years past, at the time the regulation becomes effective.

STATEMENT OF THE COUNCIL, SECTION OF LEGAL EDUCATION AND ADMISSIONS TO THE BAR, AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN LAW SCHOOLS, AND THE BOARD OF MANAGERS OF THE NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF BAR EXAMINERS CONCERNING THE PROPRIETY OF EXAMINATION BY PUBLIC AUTHORITY
BEFORE ADMISSION TO PRACTICE

July, 1971

A half century ago the American Bar Association adopted standards for legal education, the second of which is as follows:

"The American Bar Association is of the opinion that graduation from a law school should not confer the right of admission to the bar, and that every candidate should be subject to an examination by public authority to determine his fitness."

The criticism of bar examinations, which is daily becoming more prevalent, makes it most appropriate for the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar and the Board of managers of the National Conference of Bar Examiners to state their opinion on the matter of the so-called Diploma Privilege.

It is the position of the Council and Board that the above-quoted standard, adopted in 1921, is as valid today—perhaps more so with the mobility of law graduates—as it was at the time and that every applicant for admission to the bar should be subject to examination by public authority.

Very great progress has taken place in the caliber of legal education in the fifty years intervening since 1921. In part the improvement in legal education has been the result of experimentation in teaching techniques. Not all such experiments have proved successful. Public authority should not dictate teaching techniques but it should make sure that applicants have the training necessary to adequately serve the public upon their admission.

Not only are law schools quite properly experimenting in teaching techniques but they are experimenting in curriculum content. Again, public authority should not dictate curriculum content but by examination should determine that the content of the applicant's education is such that upon admission he will be able to adequately serve the public. In one of the jurisdictions where graduates of certain law schools are admitted without examination, the Court found it necessary to a certain extent to dictate the curriculum content of those schools—an unfortunate limitation on the educational freedom of those schools.

Bar examinations themselves serve additional functions. They encourage law graduates to study subjects not taken in law school. They require the applicant to review all he has learned in law school with a result that he is made to realize the interrelation of the various divisions of the law—to view the separate subject courses which he took in law school as a related whole. This the curriculum of most law schools does not achieve. Also it is the first time many of the applicants will have been examined by persons other than those who taught them, a valuable experience in preparation for appearing before a completely strange judge.

To reiterate, it is the position of the Council and the Board of Managers that there must be examination by public authority. This is not to say that public authority must not be very careful in its examination procedure to make sure that it is fulfilling its responsibilities. It should continually strive to make its methods of examination more effective so that the results will be the nondiscriminatory admission of none not qualified and the exclusion of none qualified, even though this requires the use of innovative examining techniques and constant consideration of the ever-changing needs of our society. The necessity to train lawyers to represent all members of society is a continual challenge to teachers of law and legal education. To test this properly the examining authority can perform effectively and satisfactorily only if it makes responsive changes in its techniques.

POLICY OF THE COUNCIL, SECTION OF LEGAL EDUCATION AND ADMISSIONS TO THE BAR, AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, OPPOSING POSTPONEMENT OF GRADUATION UNTIL
LAW SCHOOL HAS RECEIVED ABA APPROVAL

The Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, at its December 6-7, 1980 meeting, upon recommendation of the Section's Bar Admissions Committee, adopted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, most state supreme courts require graduation from an ABA-approved law school as a requisite for bar admission in order to assure the public that persons representing them in legal matters have received a quality legal education, and

WHEREAS, some individuals begin and complete substantially all of their legal education at unapproved law schools, which law schools have been inspected for possible ABA provisional approval but are found not to meet the ABA Standards during the time of such attendance; and these individuals may then delay their formal graduation until after the law school has received ABA provisional approval, and

WHEREAS, some law schools receiving ABA provisional approval have permitted students to delay their graduation until ABA approval was received and have then awarded such students degrees dated subsequent to receipt of ABA provisional approval,

THEREFORE, the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar hereby adopts a policy disapproving this practice, and requests that all provisionally approved law schools, all law schools seeking provisional approval, all law school inspectors and all state bar admitting authorities be notified of this policy.

CODE OF RECOMMENDED STANDARDS FOR BAR EXAMINERS

The American Bar Association, the National Conference of Bar Examiners and the Association of American Law Schools make the following recommendations to the duly constituted authorities in the several states who are vested with responsibilities and duties in respect to the admission to the bar, and to lawyers and the law schools generally.

The Code of Recommended Standards for Bar Examiners has been adopted by the policy-making bodies of the ABA, NCBE and AALS. An initial Code was adopted in 1959. A revised Code was adopted in 1980. Amendments adding the present moral character and fitness standards were adopted in February 1987; additional amendments bringing the Code to its present form were adopted in August 1987, with ABA adoption by the House of Delegates on August 11, 1987. The recommended standards represent the results of accumulated study and experience of a number of lawyers, examiners, and teachers of high standing. They are offered solely in the hope that they will afford guidance and assistance and will lead toward uniformity of objectives and practices in bar admissions throughout the United States.

I. BAR EXAMINERS

1. Qualifications. A bar examiner should be a person with scholarly attainments and an affirmative interest in legal education and requirements for admission to the bar. A bar examiner should be willing and able to devote whatever time is necessary to perform the duties of the office. A bar examiner should be conscientious, studious, thorough and diligent in learning the methods, problems and progress of legal education, in preparing bar examinations, and in seeking to improve the examination, its administration and requirements for admission to the bar. A bar examiner should be just and impartial in recommending the admission of applicants. A bar examiner should exhibit courage, judgment and moral stamina in refusing to recommend applicants who lack adequate general and professional preparation or who lack moral character and fitness.

2. Tenure. A bar examiner should be appointed by and be responsible to the judicial branch of government, and should be appointed for a fixed term, but should be eligible for reappointment if performing work of high quality. Members of bar examining authorities should be appointed for staggered terms to ensure continuity of policy, but there should be sufficient rotation in the personnel of each authority to bring new views to the authority and to ensure continuing interest in its work.

3. Conflicts of Interest. A bar examiner should not have adverse interests, conflicting duties or inconsistent obligations that will in any way interfere or appear to interfere with the proper administration of the examiner's functions. A bar examiner should not participate directly or indirectly in courses for the preparation of applicants for bar admission. The conduct of a bar examiner should be such that there may be no suspicion that the examiner's judgment may be swayed by improper considerations.

II. ELIGIBILITY OF APPLICANTS

4. Burden of Proof. The burden of establishing eligibility to take the bar examination should be on the applicant.

5. College Education. Each applicant should be required to have successfully completed at least three-fourths of the work acceptable for a baccalaureate degree at an accredited college or university before beginning the study of law.

6. Law School Education. Each applicant should be required to have completed all requirements for graduation with a J.D. or LL.B. degree from a law school approved by the American Bar Association before being eligible to take a bar examination, and to have graduated therefrom before being eligible for admission to practice. Neither private study, correspondence study or law office training, nor age or experience should be substituted for law school education.

III. MORAL CHARACTER AND FITNESS

7. Purpose. The primary purpose of character and fitness screening before admission to the bar is the protection of the public and the system of justice. The lawyer licensing process is incomplete if only testing for minimal competence is undertaken. The public is inadequately protected by a system that fails to evaluate character and fitness as those elements relate to the practice of law. The public interest requires that the public be secure in its expectation that those who are admitted to the bar are worthy of the trust and confidence clients may reasonably place in their lawyers.

8. Organization and Funding. A body appointed by and responsible to the judicial branch of government (which may be separate from the bar examining authority but which will be referred to hereinafter as the bar examining authority) should administer character and fitness screening. It should perform its duties in a manner that assures the protection of the public by recommending or admitting only those who qualify. Sufficient funding and staffing should be provided to permit appropriate investigation of all information pertaining to applicants' character and fitness.

9. Development and Publication of Standards. Character and fitness standards should be articulated and published by each bar examining authority. Some variation in rules and interpretations among the bar examining authorities may be appropriate, as character and fitness screening is the responsibility of each individual bar examining authority. Standards should be applied in a consistent manner and interpretive material should be developed in furtherance of this objective.

10. The Investigative Process. The bar examining authority may appropriately place on the applicant the burden of producing information. Each investigation should be initiated by requiring the applicant to execute under oath a thorough application and to sign an authorization and release form that extends to the bar examining authority and to any persons or institutions supplying information thereto. The applicant should be informed of the consequences of failing to produce information requested by the application and of making material omissions or misrepresentations. The bar examining authority should frame each question on the application in a manner that renders the scope of inquiry clear and unambiguous. The bar examining authority should have the power to cause witnesses and documents or other records to be subpoenaed and to administer oaths or affirmations.

11. Confidentiality and Due Process. Each jurisdiction should adopt a rule respecting confidentiality of records and sources that balances the need to protect the applicant, the sources, and the public. Minimally, this rule should provide for confidentiality of records and sources for purposes other than cooperation with another bar examining authority. The bar examining authority should adopt a rule respecting due process that specifies procedures which include notice to applicants and an opportunity to appear, with right to counsel, before the committee before a final adverse determination is made. The bar examining authority should adopt a rule respecting a permissible reapplication date for applicants who, after being afforded due process, are denied admission on character and fitness grounds.

12. Standard of Character and Fitness. A lawyer should be one whose record of conduct justifies the trust of clients, adversaries, courts and others with respect to the professional duties owed to them. A record manifesting a significant deficiency in the honesty, trustworthiness, diligence or reliability of an applicant may constitute a basis for denial of admission.

13. Relevant Conduct. The revelation or discovery of any of the following should be treated as cause for further inquiry before the bar examining authority decides whether the applicant possesses the character and fitness to practice law:

- unlawful conduct
- academic misconduct
- making of false statements, including omissions
- misconduct in employment
- acts involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit or misrepresentation
- abuse of legal process
- neglect of financial responsibilities
- neglect of professional obligations
- violation of an order of a court
- evidence of mental or emotional instability
- evidence of drug or alcohol dependency
- denial of admission to the bar in another jurisdiction on character and fitness grounds disciplinary action by a lawyer disciplinary agency or other professional disciplinary agency of any jurisdiction

14. Access to Information. Access to bar admission character and fitness information, bar disciplinary information and criminal justice information is particularly essential and should be facilitated by legislation, rulemaking and interjurisdictional cooperation.

15. Use of Information. The bar examining authority should determine whether the present character and fitness of an applicant qualifies the applicant for admission. In making this determination through the processes described above, the following factors should be considered in assigning weight and significance to prior conduct:

- the applicant's age at the time of the conduct
- the recency of the conduct
- the reliability of the information concerning the conduct
- the seriousness of the conduct
- the factors underlying the conduct
- the cumulative effect of conduct or information
- the evidence of rehabilitation
- the applicant's positive social contributions since the conduct
- the applicant's candor in the admissions process
- the materiality of any omissions or misrepresentations

The investigation conducted by the bar examining authority should be thorough in every respect and should be concluded expeditiously. It should be recognized that information may be developed in the course of the investigation that is not germane to the question of licensure and should be disregarded.

Conduct that is merely socially unacceptable or the physical disability of the applicant is not relevant to character and fitness for law practice and should not be considered.

IV. BAR EXAMINATIONS

16. Necessity of Written Examination. A person who is not a member of the bar of another jurisdiction of the United States should not be admitted to practice until the person has passed a written bar examination administered under terms and conditions equivalent to those applicable to all other applicants for admission to practice. An applicant may also be required to pass a separate examination on the subject of professional responsibility, such as the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination.

17. Opportunity for Examination. Each examination should be held at such times as will assure sufficient opportunity to the applicants to prepare therefor without interfering with the completion of law school studies.

18. Purpose of Examination. The bar examination should test the ability of an applicant to identify legal issues in a statement of facts, such as may be encountered in the practice of law, to engage in a reasoned analysis of the issues and to arrive at a logical solution by the application of fundamental legal principles, in a manner which demonstrates a thorough understanding of these principles. The examination should not be designed primarily to test for information, memory or experience. Its purpose is to protect the public, not to limit the number of lawyers admitted to practice.

19. Subjects of Examination. In the selection of subjects for bar examination questions, the emphasis should be upon the basic and fundamental subjects that are regularly taught in law schools. However, subjects of substantial local importance may be included. Reasonable notice of the subject matter to be covered by the examination should be made available to the law schools and the applicants.

20. Questions and Format. The bar examination may include multiple choice questions, such as those on the Multistate Bar Examination, and should include essay questions. Questions should not be based on unusual or unique local case or statutory law, except in subjects with respect to which local variations are highly significant and applicants are informed that answers should be based upon local law. An essay question should not be repeated except after a substantial lapse of time. Questions should not be labeled as to subject matter and should not be so worded as to be deceptive or misleading. Sufficient time should be allowed to permit the applicant to make a careful analysis of the questions and to prepare well-reasoned answers to essay questions.

21. Preparation of Questions. The bar examining authority may use the services of its members or staff or other qualified persons, including out-of-state law teachers, to prepare bar examination questions and it may also use the services of the National Conference of Bar Examiners. Before an essay question is accepted for use every point of law in the question should be thoroughly briefed and the question should be analyzed and approved by the members of the bar examining authority.

22. Handicapped Applicants. Without impairing the integrity of the examination process, the bar examining authority should adopt procedures allowing physically handicapped applicants to have assistance, equipment or additional time as it determines to be reasonably necessary under the circumstances to assure their fair and equal opportunity to perform on the examination.

V. GRADING BAR EXAMINATIONS

23. Non-Identity Grading. Each jurisdiction should establish procedures which assure that the identity of each applicant in the grading process is not known to any person having responsibility for grading or determining whether the applicant passes or fails until the grades of all applicants have been finally determined.

24. Grading Process. The bar examining authority may use the services of its members or staff or other qualified persons to grade answers to essay questions. If practical, all answers to a particular essay question should be graded by the same person. If multiple graders are used, the bar examining authority should adopt procedures for the calibration of graders to assure uniformity of the grading standards. The bar examining authority may adopt procedures dispensing with the grading of the answers to some of the essay questions of applicants who attain high scores on multiple choice questions, but no failing score should be given except upon the basis of the grades of the applicant on all questions. The grading process and grade distributions should be periodically reviewed in order to assure uniformity in grading.

25. Rights of Failing Applicants. The decision of the bar examining authority as to whether an applicant has passed or failed a bar examination should be final. An applicant who fails a bar examination should have the right, within a reasonable period of time after announcement of the results of the examination, to see the applicant's answers to the essay questions and the grades assigned thereto, and to compare each of these answers with an approved answer.

26. Re-Examination. An applicant who has failed to pass three or more bar examinations may be required to complete additional study prescribed by the bar examining authority, or to establish that the reasons for previous failures no longer exist, before being permitted to take any subsequent examination.

VI. ADMINISTRATION

27. Adequacy of Staff. The bar examining authority should be provided with adequate administrative and clerical staff.

28. Publication of Results. The bar examining authority should announce the numbers of applicants who have passed and who have failed the bar examination as a whole and by law school.

29. Periodic Studies. A thorough study should be periodically made of the bar examination results to determine its effectiveness, to discover defects and to suggest possible improvements in the bar examination system. Each jurisdiction should make the results of these studies available to other jurisdictions upon request.

30. Conferences with Applicants. The bar examining authority should make representatives available to meet with potential applicants upon invitation at least once each year at each of the law schools in the jurisdiction. Such representatives should be prepared to discuss general purposes, policies and procedures of the examination.

31. Committee on Cooperation. Each jurisdiction should have an active committee on cooperation consisting of representatives of the bar examining authority, the law schools, the judiciary and the bar which meets at least annually to consider issues related to legal education, eligibility and admission to the bar.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO LEGAL PRACTICE IN THE UNITED STATES

This table contains summaries of educational and residence requirements furnished by State Bar Examiners on January 15, 1988. Since bar admission rules and practices are subject to change, this table should be used only as a general guide. Specific, up-to-date answers to questions concerning bar admissions should be obtained from the bar admission administrator of the jurisdiction involved. A directory of bar admission administrators is at page 83.

Graduation from an ABA-approved law school meets the law study requirements of every state, and a majority of states limit admission to graduates of ABA-approved schools. The states of California, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington permit law office study as a substitute for a law school graduation. The states of Maine, New York, and Wyoming permit a combination of law school and law office study as a substitute for a law school graduation. The states of West Virginia and Wisconsin have a "Diploma Privilege," which permits graduates of one or more law schools located within the state to be admitted without a written bar examination.
